ITALIAN EATS IN VANCOUVER'S YALETOWN

Earlier this year I went to Toronto and ate a whole load of Italian food. Then right after I came to Vancouver and was craving Italian food. I asked my friends where I could find a decent Italian meal. No one had an answer but we all favored Campagnolo and Terroni in Toronto. But what was Vancouver's comparable? I was left without a strong favourite but I was determined to find it.

A few months later I came back to Vancouver and was researching farm to table dinners and came across La Pentola. I wasn't able to attend their once monthly farm to table prix fixe so I came to check out the restaurant at lunch instead. My friend and I dined family style and shared a burrata (obsessed) salad, a beet ravioli pasta dish and for our main, roasted trout. The meal was delicious and now I am keen on returning to try out their prix fixe family style dinner on the last Sunday of the month.
